

Overview

Key Features of Initiative 502

- It would no longer be a crime for adults 21 and over to possess up to one ounce of marijuana for personal use.

- Specially-licensed Washington farmers would be allowed to grow marijuana that could be sold in standalone, marijuana-only package stores operated by private Washington businesses licensed and regulated by the state. Public display, and smoking in bars or other locations where tobacco smoking is prohibited, would not be allowed. Advertising and store locations would be restricted to minimize exposure to people under 21.

502 - Tax Revenue Distribution

According to the state Office of Financial Management, I-502's new 25% marijuana excise tax, combined with retail sales and B&O tax, would generate more than a half-billion dollars in new tax revenue annually. Approximately $182 million would go to the state general fund, $34 million to local budgets, and $366 million to health care, education, and prevention.

- A new marijuana DUI standard would operate like Washington's alcohol DUI standard to discourage drivers who might be over the limit from getting behind the wheel.
